

Bring your education to life by studying in communities across the globe that are striving to live more equitably.

- Sustainable development
 - Environmental studies & research
 - Appropriate technologies
 - Consensus decision making
 - Peace and social justice
 - Worldviews and consciousness
 - Permaculture & ecological design
-
- Organic agriculture
 - Fair trade
 - Local economies
 - Green building
 - Habitat restoration
 - Women's empowerment
 - Bioregional studies

Through rich, academic, interdisciplinary coursework, service learning, cultural studies and community immersions, Living Routes programs support you in developing the understanding, skills, and experience necessary to help restore your life, community and the planet to greater health and resiliency while preparing for a career that makes a difference.

Earn college credit from the University of Massachusetts on our semester, Summer and January-term study abroad programs. Living Routes is a carbon conscious organization.